ACP. DRAWS NEARLY 6,000 MAINE FARMS

Maine's Agricultural Conservation Program enrolled 6,774 farms during the past year, reports Donald Prince of Turner, chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. This is an increase of 234 farms over the previous year. Federal assistance amounted to $1,094,004, or about half the farmers' costs of establishing approved conservation practices. The farmers paid the other half in money, materials, labor and equipment.

MAINE AGRICULTURAL STABILIZATION AND CONSERVATION PROGRAM

The 1957-58 year of the program was a record one for the State. The program has been a success in many ways. It has helped farmers to conserve their land and to improve their living conditions. It has also helped to improve the environment and to protect the health of the people.

Progress Reported on Sunday River Skiway--Main Slope Nearly Cleared

Looking down the 25-foot path of the T-bar lift line at the 1500 foot level on the Barker Mountain slope.

The whine of chain saws and the roar of powerful caterpillar tractors are vivid indications of the activity well underway on the face of Barker Mountain, the site of Sunday River Skiway, Maine's newest major ski development.

Barker Mountain, just over the town line of Newry, and five miles from Bethel's business center, with its elevation of 2002 feet and vertical descent of 1400 feet, is ideally located for a family ski center.

A short run from Route 2 over the black-topped Sunday River road leads to a mile and a half of good gravel road that will eventually be graded and widened to two car widths. This gravel road carries the motorist directly to the base of the mountain where long piles of cut and piled gravel await the activities of the contractors who are clearing the 250-foot wide winding main slope to the mountain top.

An experienced crew of timber operators in the past month and a half has slashed its way to the 5000 foot mark on the mountain side, removing the tree-length logs by tractor to the base where they are sawed into mill wood lengths. The workers of the whining chain saws are slowly reaching into the additional 1200 feet of the sparse growth that stretches to the mountain top. They hope to complete the clearing of the main slope before the winter's snow bars the use of the power equipment.

The lumbermen remove only the trees which are saleable. The smaller trees and brush are handled by work and crews of volunteers from the Gateway Corporation and Bethel business men. Each Sunday needs a crew working in the cleared area, gathering debris into piles which are burned on the mountain side. All of the smaller trees are brought down by axe or chainsaw and piled into the fires which extend from the base toward the crest of the mountain.

This same volunteer crew performed the stupendous task of clearing the 25-foot-wide lift line to the 1500 foot level. Here is another project that is hoped to be completed before the deep snow arrives.

An access road was also built by the volunteers, plus powerful bulldozing equipment. This road now reaches nearly half way to the summit of the mountain, and provides a route for the small jeeps to grind their way loaded with workers, up the steep slope.

The expense of this clearing operation to date has been $50, and is expected not to exceed $150. The proceeds from the sale of wood removed from the cleared areas will pay the balance of the clearing costs.

A survey of the area boundaries is being carried out so the options can be taken up from the land owners.

The sale of stock has been going on for several months and as an incentive to purchasers of the stock, the ski corporation officials have announced this week that purchasers of a block of $1600 worth of stock will receive a lifetime pass, $750 worth of stock, a 10 year pass, $500 worth of stock, a five year pass, and $250 worth of stock a one-year pass.

The officials announced that present stockholders are eligible to these passes.

LIFE LINES

by Col. Ralph T. Miller of The Salvation Army

AT WHAT FIRE DO YOU WARM YOURSELF?

"Peter warmed himself at the fire" (Mark 14:54).

I once read those words without adding myself, "What fire? At what fire did Peter warm himself? At what fire am I warming myself? At what fire do the people around me warm themselves?"

Let's make it even more personal: At what fire do you warm yourself?

Many people warm themselves at the fire of selfishness, but its warmth is never quite enough to drive out the chill in their souls. Many people, in other parts of the world, have tried during the past few years to warm themselves by the fire of communism. They have found that it was a consuming fire which in the end destroyed them. It would be possible to go on and list a dozen or more fires by which people have tried to warm themselves.

But the important question that you and I must answer is, "At what fire are you warming yourself?" Sometimes it makes us uncomfortable to face the answer. For we know that we have been living lives that are "living lies." We profess faith in certain ideals, but we do not live by them.

Two years ago, a religious leader from Oxford, Dr. Daniel Niles, was invited to give a series of lectures at Yale University. In them, he stated quite frankly how far the claims and pretenses of the west differ from the way we really live, at least in the eyes of the world. He said, "It is irresponsible to think that people can live safely all the week, and then, with spare strength can serve the end of God's Kingdom."

How about it, At what fire are you warming yourself, really?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The fall meeting of Salary Committee Chairmen was held at MTA Headquarters in Augusta, November 1. As chairman of our local committee it was my privilege to attend. The meeting was both instructive and informative.

Following is a partial report of the day's business. Some of the information was compiled at the State level, and some was obtained from NEA Headquarters in Washington.

Maine stands seventh from the bottom of the list of states in its efforts at salary improvement for its teachers. In actual salary paid it is thirty-eighth down the list.

Industry is far more considerate of its professional people. Starting salaries for college graduates in industry average $5000 for men and $4000 for women. College graduates in education in Maine start at $1000. Bowdoin College graduates this year command $1800. State graduates are getting from $1200 to $1400. This is approximately $1000 below beginning salaries in other lines of work.

When one enters a profession, he or she has a right to look forward to a certain salary within a given period of time. Doubling the salary in twelve years is about the standard. Industry provides for this, but the teaching profession doesn't. Therefore, we need a salary schedule.

We in education are losing our professional people to industry at a rapid rate, and worse still, we are not replacing them with professional people. In Maine, during the last six years, the number teaching on permit has risen from 220 to 925.

This is not to say that all those teaching on permit are not educated people. Many of them are but they did not educate themselves to be teachers. Imagine calling in a lawyer when the baby is sick, and the doctor is out of town!

The most important single area which has been neglected in the salary at the top. We've been far too concerned with raising the lower brackets; that is, the people with two or three years of training or, sometimes less. As a consequence, our degree people have suffered. They haven't been and still aren't being paid nearly in proportion to their additional education beyond the other levels.

If we are to keep our young, beginning graduates in the profession, we must give them more consideration, and an attractive salary would be a big help.

Due to cost of living rises and inflation, any teacher who doesn't get a 4% raise in salary in the coming year is, in effect, being asked to take a cut. Granted these raises are not being granted due to other heavy expenditures, the persons in charge of salaries are really asking their teachers to foot the bill.

There is one final note which I am happy to add. In the future, school administrators and board members will be asked and expected to work with the committee in drafting salary schedules. This will make for more cooperation and understanding all around.

WORKING TOWARD YOUR CAREER

A woman's career in a man's world. That is how the secretarial profession is described by Clara H. Jennings, president of the National Secretaries Association (International), and author of one of a series of brochures on career opportunities.

prepared as a public service by New York Life Insurance Company.

"In many professions," Miss Jennings says, "women are in constant competition against men. The secretarial work with men. One is one of the very few professions where being a woman is of greatest advantage, rather than being a subtle handicap in reaching the top. Employers value the feminine qualities of tact, initiative, imagination and manner that women bring to an office."

According to Miss Jennings, who is a certified professional secretary, the woman who enters the secretarial profession should be able to:

1. Be a good typist. 2. Be a good stenographer. 3. Be a good bookkeeper. 4. Be a good office manager. 5. Be a good secretary.

She adds that a successful secretary must be able to "accept sudden changes of plan calmly and without flurry" and be able to "turn on a dime" and work efficiently under heavy pressure "when an emergency challenges her chief." She must also be accurate, neat and prompt in her work.

Miss Jennings advises a girl to "approach secretarial work as her chosen career and not as a stepping stone to other positions." She prepared herself for secretarial work, she found it enjoyable, and she is now a successful secretary.

HIT HIM HARD!

MAN'S RECIPE

SUNNY AGRES COLE SLAW DRESSING

Cabbage is one of our most popular, ancient lineage food plants. Scientists believe the modern type, hard-headed, cabbage originated in the eastern Mediterranean lands, and that the Romans introduced it in Europe. In old garden literature, there are references to hard-headed cabbage in 12th century writings.

Jacques Cartier introduced cabbage to this continent in 1541 when he planted it in Canada after his third voyage. Most of the varieties grown today were originated in Germany and the Low Countries of Europe. I am very fond of cole slaw. If it is dressed with the right type and flavored dressing.

I know that some folks don't go for cole slaw the way I do, but I think it is a fitting accompaniment to baked beans, sea food dishes, and macaroni and cheese. If you have had trouble growing tender cabbage, try scattering a couple of tablespoons of general fertilizer around each plant at 10 day intervals through June and July.

Today's dressing is a bit on the sweet side, but it is the way I like it and it utilizes my taste buds as it licks them. Use three fourths cup evaporated milk, one third teaspoon salt, four tablespoons sugar, one eighth teaspoon pepper, four tablespoons cider vinegar.

Mix the milk, salt, sugar and pepper. Add the vinegar slowly, stirring all the time as you add. When the mixture is well blended, place in the refrigerator and chill before using. Haydn S. Pearson

The Maine Highway Safety Committee reminds us that the carpet of fallen leaves which covers the streets and highways in many places at this time of year is a very real danger to motorists. Often wet from dew and rain, these leaves make a very treacherous stopping surface. The Committee urges us to approach such areas cautiously and to drive at reduced speeds so that a sudden braking will not be necessary.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

WOODLAND POND

On a quiet, sunny day in November, it is good for a man to get away from the tension of the marketplace and to walk a quiet woodland. Each person who delights in nature and the countryside has his favorite spot. One interesting and relaxing place is a woodland pond.

A mixed stand of evergreens, birches and maples lines the shore. At water's edge, the brown, water-logged leaves form a necklace between water and land. The white and gray of the birches makes a lace pattern against the blue-green of the pines, firs and spruces.

There are peaceful days in November when the blue of the woodland pond is deeper than the blue of June. Not a ripple stirs the surface; the pond is a blue-mirror reflection of white clouds and the gold platter of sun. In the shallow water around the edge, the colors of the stones are muted rich browns and reds, grays and creams.

Woodland silence broods over the placid water, and the harsh cacophony of man's busy, confused world seems far away. The cry of a bluejay and the chanting of chickadees accentuate the peace. From the distance, the measured tolling of the village bell tells of passing time and the long-drawn, poignant-sounding whistle of the train in the valley beyond the hill floats thinly overhead.

Thousands of years ago this pond was dug by a glacier. Here around a small body of water, life takes its ordained course through the cycling seasons. Deer come at dawn to drink of its water; birds bathe in the shallows, and mother ducks lead their flocks through the water. Soon the Northland King will stretch a sheet of ice across it; then the pond, like the woodland, will be in winter's grip. But on a mellow, relaxing day in November, a man can spend a pleasant hour or two by a woodland pond. Haydn S. Pearson

TODAY'S Meditation

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, November 13
Read Romans 11-16.

The peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus. (Philippians 4:7).

WALKER just could not go to sleep if there had been trouble between him and his father. One particular evening, while we were visiting in the home, little Walter had disobeyed and received a light reprimand from his father. His mother had then put him to bed to the night.

Shortly after, I heard his mother say, "Daddy, may Walter see you for a minute?" His father stepped to Walter's bedside and took him up in his arms. Walter threw his arms about his father's neck, and his father hugged and kissed him and tucked him back in his bed. Neither one spoke a word. The little fellow was soon asleep.

So it is with every child of God. We are not happy and peaceful if there is any shadow of uncertainty between us and our Father. The most important thing is the right relationship between God and ourselves. His children.

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, how wonderful is the peace Thou givest! Help us so to live this day that we may keep that peace, through Christ our Lord, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven..... Amen."

The peace that God gives every repentant soul is a priceless possession. Lillian A. Ward (Illinois)

Mrs. Edith C. Abbott, Corres.—Whitman Memorial Library News

Children's Book Week was observed at Whitman Library with new books displayed. On Tuesday the grade teachers with their pupils visited the library.

New books received recently include the following:

"Preacher's Kids," by Grace N. Fletcher—a heart-warming true story of the children, a boy and girl, whose father was a Methodist pastor, and who grew up in shabby surroundings, but were rich in spiritual values.

"Norman Vincent Peale, Minister to Millions," by Arthur Gordon—a biography of a great preacher who has inspired many by his sermons, articles and books.

"Aku-Aku—The Secret of Easter Island," by Thor Heyerdahl—Eight years after the author wrote "Kon-Tiki," he returned to the S. E. Pacific to find out, what no one else had been able to discover, the secret of the great stone statues and secret caves on Easter Island. The great respect which the natives had for "Senor Kon-Tiki" enabled him to gain their confidence and discover the secrets.

"The Peninsula," by Louise Dickinson Rich—An account of her life on a rocky, wind-swept peninsula off the coast of Maine.

"Out of My Heart" by Agnes Sligh Turnbull—Her memoirs in which she strives to pass on to others the lessons life has taught her.

"Decorating with Pops and Cakes," by Eleanor Van Rensselaer—contains many suggestions for collecting material and making decorations.

"Alaska—The 49th State—In Pictures," has an introduction by Bob Bartlett, Alaska's Delegate to Congress.

New fiction includes two mysteries: "Case of the Calendar Girl," by E. S. Gardner, and "Tether's End," by Margery Allingham; "Papa's Daughter," by Thyra Bjorn; "Centenary at Jalna" by Mazo de La Roche; "The Arizona Clan" by Zane Grey; "The Wind Rose," by Helen Hull; "Around the World with Auntie Mame," by Patrick Dennis; "Parish," by Mildred Savage; "Love Calls the Doctor" by Elizabeth Selbert; "Anna and Her Daughters" by D. E. Stevenson and "Gory Road" by Janice Holt Giles.

Also westerns and books for young people and children which will be listed later.

The annual meeting of the United Methodist Ladies Club was held last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Norman Westcott with 10 members present. Mrs. Etta Day, chairman of the nominating committee presented the following officers, who were elected: President, Mildred Westcott; Vice-President, Ruth Tyler; Secretary, Edith Abbott; and Treasurer, Annie Crockett. Plans and ideas for the Christmas sale to be held Dec. 6, were discussed and the following committees appointed: Gift tree, Adeline Mann; Food, Annie Crockett; Mildred Westcott and Lizzie Papp; Aprons, Edith Abbott and Louise Noyes; Jewelry, Junita Allen; Hummage, Etta Day and Mary Bartlett; Christmas wreaths and garlands will be in charge of the Sunday School, Gertrude Andrews, chairman. The next meeting, Dec. 6, will be held at the home of Junita Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Douglas Thompson and son, Peter, Belfast, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams from Thursday night until Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Edwards, Old New York, are the guests this week of her father, James Billings, and wife.

It's really very simple to Get in and out of Modern Low Automobiles

Face away from car ...

Sit down ...

As simple as A-B-C... Jean Richert who stands into the low-designed cars if they follow these 5 ft. 9 inches has no trouble in gracefully getting three easy steps... first, face away from the car... second, sit down... third, then pivot to the right... "No lifting legs up under the wheel... to get out easy," says Jean, "will have any difficulty getting easily just reverse the procedure."

The Archie Bennett family returned from Hebron last week at-led to extra respect and consideration," added the committee. "True, they should be aware of their vulnerability in the modern traffic stream and should be unusually cautious. Nevertheless, should they make a mistake, we, as drivers, should be prepared to compensate for the error and to protect them from injury."

"All conscientious parents should instruct their children to obey traffic signs and signals and to keep out of the street as much as possible," said the safety committee. "If they must walk at night in a section where sidewalks are not provided, make certain that they walk on the left facing oncoming traffic and that they wear something light-colored or carry a light."

"Remember," concluded the committee, "our junior and senior citizens need more help and consideration in traffic. Let's be sure we do more than our share to protect them."

WINTER SPORTS TO BE FEATURED IN STATE ADVERTISING THIS YEAR

State Advertising and promotion will be intensified this season to boost Maine as a winter sports vacation land. Fred A. Clough, Jr., Commissioner, Department of Economic Development has disclosed that space in national magazines, newspapers, exhibits in Boston and Hartford, will be supplemented by film showing, promotional writing and photography.

"One of our men, Ben Pike, of Gardiner, will be assigned nearly full-time to this promotion," Clough stated.

Pike attended a New England Council Winter Sports Conference in Woodstock, Vt., Nov. 5 and 6. He is working on a sizable exhibit with Maine artists-craftsmen Kiri Beck, Mt. Vernon, to be set up in Jordan Marsh store November 17 for the remainder of this month. In December Pike will attend a winter sports forum and film showing being conducted by "The Hartford Times" Travel Bureau in that city and again will go to Hartford for the Travel Show, Jan. 11-17, when Maine will have a major display staffed by The Public Bureau personnel.

"We have produced a new film on sking at Pleasant Mt. Bridge," Commissioner Clough added. (This was previewed at the Haggett-Erickson ski area November 5.)

"This color and sound made with supplement one made previously on Sugarloaf," Clough said. He pointed out that such films are in wide demand by both in-state and outside clubs and similar groups.

The Maine Ski Council, through its president, Dr. Ed Ballou of Portland, has set up liaison between ski promoters members (Hana Wallace and Charles Bradford of Augusta) and Commissioner Clough. The three are meeting to further promote skiing.

Marie Bonnette's widely read "Maine Today" is featuring the first occasionally Pike has written a 2000-word article for a Boston daily newspaper. The Department has secured a poster "Old Maine" through cooperation with the University of Maine.

Further, regular winter activities releases will be mailed to a list of editors from the Department of Economic Development. Commissioner Clough added.

Maine's space advertising schedule began November 9 and ends with March editions this season. Such outstanding publications as "Sports Illustrated," "Life Magazine," "The Saturday Evening Post," "The New York Times" and "The Nation" and New York will carry the winter advertising.

DEER CUTTING DEMONSTRATION

A recent demonstration on cutting a deer attracted hunters and their wives in this area. This meeting, sponsored by the Extension Service, was held at the Oxford Provisions processing plant on Danforth Street in Norway in cooperation with the Roy Brothers, Robert and Stanley.

A ninety-eight pound deer was skinned, cut up, and wrapped for freezing. Questions were asked and an opportunity given for discussion of the process. "There are several fallacies regarding the handling of a deer after it has been killed," said Robert Roy. "People used to feel it was necessary to hang a deer for a couple of weeks, but that is no longer thought to be desirable. In order to have your deer at its best, it should be dressed and washed out with water soon after it is killed; then, like any meat, deer should be kept at a constant cold temperature. Let it hang only a few days and you'll have good eating. Most deer have very little fat to protect the lean, so bacterial action starts very soon if it is kept in a warm place."

Sometimes as much as fifty percent of the animal has to be thrown away simply because it was not properly cared for, so if you're lucky enough to get a deer this year, take the proper care of it and your family will have good eating at very little expense.

ZETA CHAPTER MEETS AT SOUTH PARIS

The meeting of the Zeta Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society was held Friday at Kathleen Poland's home, South Paris. A luncheon was served by the hostess, Kathleen Poland. Bernice Greenlaw, Mildred McAllister and Angie Jackson.

An invitation for the Mu Chapter of Lewis and Clark Chapter of Norway to hold the State Convention at Penobscot Springs May 16, 1959, was accepted. Olive Lurvey, junior past president was presented a past president pin. An interesting and instructive talk "Especially United Profession" by Bertha Higgins. The next meeting will be a Christmas party held at West Paris Dec. 15. Hostesses will be Agnes Gray, Dorothy Ross and Deane Mann.

Members attending were Kathleen Poland, South Paris; Bernice Greenlaw, Norway; Mildred McAllister, Bangor; Angie Jackson, Bangor; Margery Hannas, Bangor; Mary McAllister, Bangor; Agnes Gray, West Paris; Eugene Gray, Oxford; Helen Varnes, Bangor; Olive Lurvey, Bethel; and one guest, Mrs. M. J. Hackett.

A New Jersey housewife, going about to destroy a persistent wasp struck at it with a hammer. She missed the moth and hit her husband instead. Anger, jealousy, and the episode and the recent actions of Congress in awaiting the session with public works projects which cannot possibly be under way until the support is received. We only hope that when the congressional session opens the taxpayer will be as much as the New Jersey husband is in the hands of the legislature. Mass. News.

NAMI ASKS CONGRESS TO TAKE UP LABOR REFORM

The National Association of Manufacturers has called on all members of the new Congress to take up the question of labor reform where the Kennedy-Ives bill left off.

"The problem still remains," the NAMI pointed out in a new 20-page study of the subject already being distributed to Senators and Congressmen. "It should be dealt with promptly when the new Congress convenes."

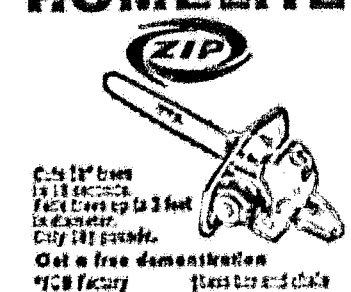

Pro-reform would not hamper unions in the exercise of their legitimate rights, the NAMI emphasized, and would not impair the right of employees to join labor organizations and bargain collectively.

In the opinion of the NAMI, any thoroughgoing reform would be directed at the menace of uncontrolled power in the hands of individual labor leaders, and would include the following six objectives:

1. The restoration of basic power and authority in labor unions to the members, rather than "professional" leaders.
2. Protection of the right of each individual to decide for himself whether he wishes to join a labor organization.
3. A prohibition against organizational picketing to force recognition of a union, and against violence, coercion, boycotts and all other forms of activity designed to force individuals to join unions.
4. Restoration of the right of individual states to act in labor-management matters properly within their jurisdiction, thus eliminating the present "no-man's land" between State and Federal jurisdiction.
5. A prohibition against nationwide or industry-wide union practices whereby collective bargaining is dominated by national or international unions without regard to the situation at the local level. This, said the NAMI, would go a long way toward ending wage-price inflation.
6. An effective ban on the use of union funds and union staff manpower for political activities.

These six objectives, the NAMI said, if translated into law by the new Congress, would put an end to the abuses revealed by the McClellan Committee, and would be instrumental in protecting employees, the economy in general, and the public.

VETERANS ADMINISTRATION NEWS LETTER

No veterans' pension based solely on age is authorized for veterans of World War I, World War II, or the Korean conflict. Stoddard, Manager, Veterans Administration Center, Togus, states in answer to numerous queries.

However, Stoddard said, pensions may be granted veterans of World War I, World War II, or the Korean conflict who are permanently and totally disabled from non-service-connected causes, regardless of their age.

Stoddard pointed out that such veterans must have been discharged under other than dishonorable conditions after at least 90 days' active service. However, service of 90 days is not required if the veteran was discharged for disability incurred in line of duty.

"Non-service-connected disability pension to a World War I, World War II, or a Korea veteran," Stoddard emphasized, "is payable only if the veteran's other income does not exceed $1,400 if single, or $2,700 if he has a wife or minor child."

The monthly pension rate is $66.15. The rate is increased to $73.75 after 10 years or when the ed for the Naval Air Facility at McMurdo Sound to spend the forthcoming long winter "night" working with the Antarctic Scientists.

During the 14,000 mile trip, rest and refueling stops will be made in California, Hawaii, the Canton Islands and Fiji Islands, before arriving at Christchurch, New Zealand, the jumping off place for flights over the 3,000 miles of water and ice to Antarctica.

permanently and totally disabled veteran reaches the age of 65, he added.

Stoddard stressed that veterans should contact the VA for details on pension and not presume their eligibility or ineligibility.

A widow's income has no bearing on her eligibility for compensation payments if her veteran husband died of a service-connected condition. Stoddard explains that considerable misunderstanding may exist on this point.

"Compensation," he added, "may be paid the widow of a veteran whose death was the result of his service. Her other income has no bearing on its payment."

"On the other hand," Stoddard emphasized, "income limitations do apply to VA death pension, which may be paid the widow of a wartime veteran who died of a non-service connected condition."

LUCKY 13 4-H CLUB

Our third meeting was called to order by Julie Brown at Rachel MacKay's home. The secretary did not have her report here so the treasurer's report was read and accepted. Refreshments came next while we had our meeting. Old business was then discussed. Next week we will have health as our project. Refreshments will be brought by Juanita Bernier and Roseanne Farrington. As our community project we donated clothes to the Tyler family, whose home burned. Meeting was then dismissed. There were 13 members present.

Nov. 10, 1958 — Meeting was called to order by Julie Brown, president. We said the pledge of the 4-H clubs and sang the 4-H song. Barbie Angevine reported on the Junior Leaders and Leaders meeting
